SEGUIN----The level of Lake McQueeney In Seguin will be approximately 10 inches below normal beginning Monday evening April 6 through Thursday afternoon, April 9 so that Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority hydroelectric crews can complete routine inspection and maintenance of the spillgates, according to Larry Moltz, manager of GBRA Hydro Operations.

Moltz said he expects all maintenance work to be completed by Thursday and the lake returned to its normal level for weekend use.

GBRA reminds anyone using Lake McQueeney for recreation purposes during this time to exercise caution, since lower lake levels can expose debris and other potential hazards that are normally concealed underwater.

The public is advised that scheduled operations may be canceled or adjusted in the event of adverse weather conditions.
